THE 1938 ECHO

Published by the SENIOR CLASS
BOYDEN HIGH SCHOOL
SALISBURY, N. C.

FOREWORD

Our labors are ended. The result is before you. Although it has been fraught with many vexations and annoyances, we will consider the reward great if this volume is perused with pleasure. It has been our highest aim to present to our fellow students and the public a correct representation of our campus activities. To our classmates and fellow students, we hope that the scanning of these pages will bring fond recollections of joyous hours and happy experiences. To the public, we hope that the results of our labors will impart a feeling of pride for Boyden High School.

Knowing that sympathetic fellow students and a generous and friendly public will make light of our mistakes and appreciate our best efforts, we unhesitatingly commit this volume to your tender mercy.

CLASS SONG

Tune: "Girl of My Dreams"

Seniors of ole Boyden High
 Raise to the sky
 Praise just for you.

And we will all follow through,
 Faithful and true
 To our ole high school days.

And when we leave ycu,
 We'll go on the same
 With our memories.

Yes, ycu will always be best,
 O'er all the rest,
 Our dear ole Boyden High.

Words by VIOLET NANCE

INVINCIBLE STANDARD FOR '38

(Class Poem '38)

Be cheerful as you face the future,
Valiant as you meet the foe,
Honest as you strive toward victory,
Careful as life's boat you row!

Have strength to conquer wrong and evil,
Love to vanquish sin and hate,
Power to choose the right vocation,
Courage to accept your fate!

Be thankful for your education,
Hopeful as you seek success,
Reverent in your daily doings,
Upright, faithful, in life's test!

HISTORY

Our class, as timid Freshmen, entered Boyden High School in September, 1934, with great hopes of becoming leaders in our chosen fields. Mrs. Simmons, nee Miss Melva Legette, was chosen as class adviser and Pete Wallenborn, as our first president. We took many honors, winning the Clean-up Award, and the Intramural Athletic Trophy for both boys and girls. Our class had a larger percentage of girls participating in sports than any other class. We, the "Green Freshmen", after our first year in this great institution of learning, moved on to our second year in Boyden High School.

As Sophomores, our record was not as outstanding as the previous year, but we were honored by having five of our classmates admitted to the Hi-Y. These were: Donald Clement, Francis Luther, "Bo" McKenzie, Joe Roberts, and John Scott Krider. We kept the same class officers and had Miss Whitener as adviser. Under the direction of Miss Jessie Thompson, the Sophomore Girl Reserves presented a beautiful Easter pageant.

Our third year was a very eventful one under the leadership of Miss Lena Boley, adviser, and Nancy Leonard, president. Our girls won the Intramural Athletic Trophy. Mary Lee Daniel was awarded the first state pin ever given in Boyden High School. Frances Enniss and Margaret Johnson received the Latin awards. Seven girls and two boys were made members of the National Honor Society. These were: Mary Lee Daniel, Margaret Johnson, Virginia Ketner, Janella Kirk, Nancy Leonard, Violet Nance, Martha Trotter, Ray Troutman, and Tom Van Poole. This year our class, as is the custom, sponsored the Junior-Senior party, which, with the King Arthur theme and with blue and white, the Senior Class colors, as decorations proved to be most successful. Nancy Leonard and Roy Childers were chosen as Chief Marshals, and Mary Emma Grant, Ruth Miller, Clarissa Spencer, Henry Hubbard, Robert Manning, and Ray Troutman as Marshals at the Commencement exercises for the Class of 1937.

Finally, we, the Class of 1938, took the role of dignified Seniors, aided in our activities by our adviser, Miss Louise Goforth, and our class president, Bobby Benson. We are very proud of our football hero, Pete Monroe, who made the All-State Team. Our basketball team won the Western Conference Championship. The Senior Girl Reserves, under the leadership of Miss Ruth Woodcock, and the Hi-Y, under the advisership of Mr. Clifford Beck, made great progress during the school year. The Girl Reserves presented a very effective Christmas pageant.

The entire school enjoyed thoroughly the change in routine when the Social Standards Conference was held in our school. We invited representatives from neighboring schools and featured well known speakers throughout the day at study groups on Wise Use of Leisure Time.

Tom Van Poole made the debating team. Mary Emma Grant won first place in the school and county Jr. O. U. A. M. Essay and Oration Contest and second place in the district contest. Fifteen of our fellow students were invited to join the National Honor Society. They were: Margaret Belt, Dorothy Click, Eddie Cuthrell, Mary Emma Grant, Carl Horn, Tom Harvey, Ruth Jones, Ruth Lorbacher, "Bo" McKenzie, Ruth Miller, Belle Hicks Purvis, Mary Putzel, Bill Shive, Hilda Stoker, and Scott Winders.

As has been the custom of the past three years, the Senior Class sponsored College Day at which time we invited representatives from the most popular colleges of North Carolina to visit our school and talk to students interested in their colleges. The day proved to be most successful.

And now after four years in dear old Boyden High School, we, the Seniors of 1938, must take our diplomas and travel on toward our goal—to become leaders of tomorrow in our chosen fields.

MARY EMMA GRANT, Historian

STATISTICS

Last January, being duly elected statistician of the highly intelligent Class of 1938, I set forth to gather, to the best of my ability, the interesting facts and figures of the class. After searching many days and nights, I finally came to the conclusion that this year's senior class is one of the most brilliant ever to represent Boyden High School in the scholastic field. Further prowling into the records of the past revealed that during the four or more years of sojourning of the class in our great institution of higher learning a grand total of 34,333 notes were written, the largest number being composed by Bill Beaver to Elaine Goodson; and if our statistics are correct, Annie Rae Long wrote the mushiest.

The average size of each senior's mouth was found to be two and one-eighth inches, a mistake being made on the first measurement due to the absence of Ruth Miller, who brought the average up a half inch.

This learned body encases its dainty feet in size seven shoe with the boys sporting eight and one-half and girls five and one-half. We tried to get some of the seniors to come to school barefooted but their dignity prevented our wishes being carried out.

The average weight we found to be one hundred twenty-five pounds, after adding five pounds to the average because of the immense bulk of Homer Surratt who weighs a mere two hundred fifteen. With Pete "Shorty" Monroe standing six feet four inches from the ground up, the height of these two hundred brilliant students was found to be five feet seven inches. The height increased an inch lately because of the newly acquired dignity. We take it as matter of course that the average of the girls is sixteen, for, as you know, that is as old as they get. Some go so far as to say they have never been kissed. The average age of the boys was seventeen and most of them are about as dumb as they look except for Arthur Sultan who couldn't be that dumb.

When we gathered our statistics, seventy per cent of this body were brunettes, twenty per cent blonds and ten per cent were in between. However, due to the presence of peroxide and other ingredients of this nature, we cannot say the percentage is the same now. The eyes of the graduates of '38 are sixty per cent blue with thirty-eight per cent brown and one and a half per cent green. Robert Manning possesses a pair of, in his own words and own color, "robin egg blue," which makes up the other fourth per cent. As we gathered these statistics we found by observation that fifty-five per cent were in love, omitting Owen Bean and Polly Jarrett, who have passed that stage; ten per cent were either too ignorant or had better sense, according to our personal opinion on the matter, than to fall in love; and the remaining five per cent were too bashful to admit that the love bug had bitten them. However, we did hear Tom Van Poole, Jr., singing "I Double Dare You" one day, which brings the percentage up a point.

The choice of a favorite car was a toss up between the Chevrolets and the trap owned by Carter and Switzer.

In this era of swing none other than Benny Goodman was chosen as the most popular orchestra, with the Briar Hopper Boys giving him a close race.

The most popular game of this supposedly highly intelligent group of seniors is without a doubt Ping Pong, which accounts for the dumb look on so many faces these days.

Donald Duck was again chosen as the favorite movie idol, leaving the Three Stooges and Tyrone Power the runners-up.

This class has traveled over all parts of the earth and has been noted for its long trips. Why, only last month Joe Heilig and Burt Hoffman spent the week-end in China Grove.

Forty per cent of the seniors have decided they know all there is to learn; consequently, there is no need to study any longer. Of the other sixty percent, thirty percent are going to college to attempt to learn a little more, while the other half is going either to keep from working or to have a good time.

In our midst there are almost two hundred Democrats but alas, there always has to be a dissenting factor in school. We found a Republican by the name of Tom Harvey, of Echo Jr. fame.

As these are all the statistics I have been able to gather in the short space of time allotted to me, I, the statistician of this peaceloving, law-abiding body will affix my signature to this great document which, I hope may be of great value to the excellent students of the Class of '38.

BOB BENSON, Statistician.

CLASS WILL

Be it remembered that we, the Senior Class of Boyden High School, Salisbury, North Carolina, fully realizing that we are imbued with a superb degree of intelligence never before attained by any group of individuals in the aforesaid institution, and further realizing that we are possessed with an abundance of charm, grace, beauty, and general excellence far surpassing that of any of our predecessors, do desire to bestow upon our less fortunate fellow students and faculty members some of our most desirable characteristics.

Therefore, be it further remembered that we, the Class of '38, being of sound mind and body, but knowing the uncertainty of this life, do hereby make this our last will and testament:

We will, bequeath, and devise as follows:

FIRST: To our parents, who have kindly watched us through all our trials and hardships, we leave our profound thanks.

SECOND: To Miss Julia Groves and the faculty, in return for the many worries we have given them, we leave our thanks and sincere appreciation.

THIRD: Nancy Leonard leaves her executive ability to Dick Crowder, the new president of the student body.

FOURTH: As it has long been the custom for the graduating class to leave some portion of the campus or building to an enamoured couple, Bill Beaver and Elaine Goodson leave the dark corner at the end of the second floor hall to John Hanford and Ella Troy Woodson, with the hope that they can hold hands in the hall as gracefully as their predecessors.

FIFTH: Bruce Ross and J. W. McGinnis leave their grappling ability to Milton Shoaf and "Fleabit" Thompson, respectively.

1938 ECHO

SIXTH: The Milford Hills twins, Kitty and Eleanor, leave their ability to attract a stag line to Nancy Craige Summers and Elizabeth Roseman.

SEVENTH: Cecil ("Shorty") Monroe leaves his friendship with the Spencer traffic court to J. C. Carson.

EIGHTH: To Reid Clark goes Willy Ross's collection of wisecracks.

NINTH: Betsy Russell and Hilda Stoker leave their exquisite beauty to Rachel Trexler and Nancy Jackson.

TENTH: Charles Peacock leaves his knack for truckin' to Don Clement, with the hope that he too can be the life of the party.

ELEVENTH: Ruth Miller leaves her calm, demure, sedate manner to Ella Troy Woodson.

TWELFTH: To Mr. Oscar McCormick, with love and kisses—all the sour notes ever sung by the football team's shower room quartets.

THIRTEENTH: Robert Manning leaves his dainty masculine beauty to Alvin ("Frankenstein") Kluttz, with the hope that he, too, can make the basketball fans stand up and cheer.

FOURTEENTH: Violet Nance leaves her unlimited ability to tickle a piano's molars to Katherine Cress.

FIFTEENTH: Trent Busby leaves his love of, devotion to, and respect for the faculty to anyone who is willing to bring teacher an apple every day.

SIXTEENTH: Tom Van Poole and Ray Troutman leave their love of academic labor to Ermine Williams and Graham Carlton, with the suggestion that parts of Chaucer's poetry are simply thrilling.

SEVENTEENTH: Bo McKenzie leaves his all-round good qualities to Kempton Jones.

EIGHTEENTH: Sam Mauney and Virginia Ketner leave their few remaining blank traffic slips to anyone who stoops to take them.

NINETEENTH: The senior members of our Conference Championship Basketball Team leave their fighting spirit to the 1939 team.

TWENTIETH: Tom Harvey and Joe Heilig leave their "nose for news" to anyone who is willing to take over the Echo, Jr. Sports Section.

TWENTY-FIRST: To the underclassmen: Although it is impossible for you to attain a standard of excellence equal to that established by us, you should work hard, not take the opposite sex too seriously, be tolerant of faculty members, and constantly strive for improvement, in order that you may use these characteristics left to you by us to the best advantage.

In closing, we, the Class of '38, do affix our signatures to this superb document, and appoint as our executors, Mr. Clifford Keith Beck, and Mr. Ralph K. Shaver.

CARL HORN, JR., Lawyer.

PROPHECY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

This afternoon I wandered, lonely and sad, into the woods to study the beauty of nature. Upon my arrival I was amused at a trickling stream. The birds were singing from every tree top; the atmosphere was filled with the fragrance of flowers blooming near by; a little gray squirrel was scampering around joyfully. All nature seemed to be contributing its beauty, and blending into peaceful music.

I sat down on a rock near by with my head lying on a pillow of moss to study the work of the little stream. This brought to my mind Boyden High School—not so much the school, but my class mates. Where would they be after graduation? I wondered. The brook soon told me.

You ask, "Can a brook tell stories?" This very little brook has related many a story. And the following is the story it told me of the dear old Class of Thirty-eight, twenty years hence.

Ripple, Ripple, Ripple! On flows the Prophecy of Thirty-eight. Many of the classes have gone to distant places to settle down; however, a few have remained loyal to Boyden, making additions to the faculty.

Frances Beaver, after much debating as to whether to teach French or Latin, decided to take up the former. She now is Head of the French Department, while Margaret Johnson is Head of the Latin Department.

Eleanor Holshouser has truly merited the position of piano teacher after tedious and long years of practice. Ruth McMillan supervises a large group of typing and shorthand students. Ottis Stilwell has been made band director. The first thing he did was to make out an order for some new music. Taylor Sprinkle is the latest addition to the Math Department.

Having taken over their father's business, Ray and Carroll are making great progress in the Heck & Heck Poultry Store, while Fred Rufty, assisted by Virginia Rufty, is operating a grocery store.

Bill Beaver has been married to Elaine Goodson so long that they can sing "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Lillian Beaver, having married Trent Busby, young and helpless, has settled back to darning his socks. Recently she led a parade in which Lysbeth Harris, Ruth Thompson, Margaret Belt, and Mildred Bradley proudly carried banners showing the terrible effects of chewing gum on the minds of high school students and requesting a constitutional amendment to allay this great evil.

Robert Manning is now a prosperous soft drink magnate.

When taking his family for a ride on M. J. Plyler's good boat, "Rock and Rye", recently, the gallant pilot, Burgess Miller, by falling overboard, jarred his teeth so badly he had to consult Floyd Brown, best painful dentist in town, and let his assistant, Aline Morgan, hold his hand.

Marion Brockmann is the Ford sales agent in Faith after having married Phyllis Carter, noted throughout the county for her cooking.

Eunice Branch, Minnie File, Christine Rouche, and Julia Trollinger are conducting a finishing school for young ladies.

Roy Childers, husband of Annie Rae Long, declared recently that after putting three daughters through school his bank account was finished whether the girls were or not.

With Ora Brown as manager, Hazel Carter, Ruth Earnhardt, Margaret Curlee, and Velma Lingle are now running a beauty parlor in China Grove.

Hugh Hunter, Douglas Doby, Francis Luther, and Carl Horn are members of the Rowan County Bar. Recently, Carl won a case for Charles Switzer and John Carter, whose automobile accident was declared unavoidable. They were advised to get a new car, however.

Walter Roberts is announcer for W L W. The favorite programs he announces are "Rubinoff" Erneston and his violin and Violet Nance's Symphony Orchestra.

In the political field Ray Troutman is very prominent as President of the "League of Nations". Joe Heilig has become janitor of our beautiful Post Office, and Eddie Cuthrell Mayor of Salisbury.

Milton Ruble and Clarissa Spencer, always inspired with lofty aspirations, are now pilot and air hostess, respectively, of a Transatlantic Airship.

Dr. Martha Eller, famous surgeon, is head of the staff at Johns Hopkins Hospital. Others on the staff are Ida Mae Blackwelder, Mildred Albright, Kathleen Kenerly, and Frances Hall. At Duke Hospital Dr. Eugene Correll heads the staff. Nell Hearn, Juanita Hoffner, Edith Link, Mary McDaniel and Lillian Lentz are nurses there. In various offices of prominent doctors such as Frederick Spencer, Bo McKenzie, Livan Ross, and Bill McCulley, the efficient assistants are Kathryn Curd, Helen Swicegood, Estelle Waller, and Nureldine Stoessel.

Ada Hunt and Belle Hicks Purvis are two of the leading social service workers in Salisbury. Their chief accomplishment was the taming of the W. W. W. (Wild Women of the World). Martha Trotter is also a very outstanding person in social service work.

Olin Adams is making great progress as an actor, while Ruth Harrison is becoming very popular as Simon Simone's double.

Harry Arthur is master mechanic of the Spencer Shops. Others employed there are Owen Bean, Raymond Bostian, Allen Heilig, Arnold Kluttz, Buster Lingle, and Harold Rogers.

As telephone employees have good opportunities to listen in on conversations, Lodema Moose, Mildred Brown, Lillian Brown, and Duree Hodge are well informed as to local incidents. Lodema is assistant supervisor of the company.

In Woman's College Mary Lee Daniel is a gym instructor, Janella Kirk, a professor of math, and Nancy Leonard, a professor of art. Due to her pleasing personality Ruth Jones has been made dean.

Among the leading electricians of the state are Jason Lentz, Herman Beaver and Douglas Cutting.

In Paris, Betsy Russell and Hilda Stoker are very outstanding models, while Louise Long and Ruth Lorbacher are becoming very famous for designing.

North Carolina is noted for its secretaries and stenographers. Some of these are Hazel Lentz, Mildred Benson, Mildred Butler, Barbara Davis, Leslie Cox, Ruby Gudger, Katherine Haithcock, Merriem Hansell, and Mary Nail Harrison.

In the Congressional Library, Margaret Grubb, Alberta Isenhour, and Jane Tarleton hold very responsible positions as librarians.

Bill Rusher, Kenneth Eagle, Allen Wood, and Herschel Doyle are in the filling station business.

Bob Benson, acting as football coach at State, has his assistants Fred Loflin and Tom Walser.

James Hartline, having quit the laundry business, and Burton Hoffman are running an apriary, and the entire output has been contracted for by the unmarried ladies of the class of thirty-eight.

Elmina Hudson, Adele Swain, and Kitty Sigmon have become owners of the Flash Amusement Company, and now every show is a comedy.

Cecil Watlington had to retire from the dry goods business because it takes all his time figuring up his excess profits tax.

Mary Lena Waggoner is a writer of popular songs. Her latest one entitled "You'll Find Her in the Corner Where Men Are," rendered by a former singer of Boyden High School fame, has made a tremendous hit.

Well, H. B. Deadmon is running two factories, one for furniture, and one for Mountain Dew on Dunn's Mountain. But H. B. had a hard time getting his Dunn's Mountain product to market since he had to escape vigilance of the "Terror of the Moonshiners," Sheriff Joe Shuping. He has hired the master mining engineer of the universe, Arthur Rufty, to construct a tunnel from Dunn's Mountain to town so that he can be sure of steady service.

The most famous newspaper in the country today, "The New York Post", is noted for its staff which consists of Mildred Saleeby, Dorothy Click, Betty Daniel, Thomas Harvey, Henry Hubbard, Arthur Sultan, and Irving Thompson.

Ruth Miller is dancing her way to fame as a professional toe dancer, while Frances Ludwig daily originates some new dance equal to the "Big Apple."

Ruth Edmiston, aided greatly by her pleasing disposition, is dietician at the Biltmore Hospital. Eleanor Safrit is dietician at Catawba College, and at Pinehurst we find Mary Emma Grant, a noted dietician; Evelyn Yost, Mildred Williams, Dorothy Holton and Ethel House followed her there as nurses.

In the World Olympics Mary Frances Hodge took first place as champion hockey player.

David Graham is famous throughout the South as a G-Man. He is very skilled in finger printing. "Uncle Sam" has placed many of the class of thirty-eight in government positions. Everett Walton is postmaster general of the U. S. W. William Frost is postmaster of Salisbury. The pilot of the U. S. mail plane from N. Y. to Miami is Harold Peeler. Bill Owen is co-pilot.

James Mesimer is a highway patrolman in New Jersey.

Fame has come to Mary Rufty almost over night due to the new line of cosmetics that she invented. Others in this line are Sara Trexler, Ardith Parks, and Louise Willard. Mary contributes her success to her advertising and circulation department. Bruce Ross is manager of this department, which consists of Armond Kluttz, Carl Roseman, and Cecil Monroe. Some sales ladies are Frances Enniss, Lillie Johnson, and Frances Leonard.

Bonnie McCubbins and Helen Powell are laboratory technicians but Bonnie writes information on "How to Get the Mumps" on the sidelines.

Among important electrical engineers today are Tom Van Poole, Junior Bridges, J. B. Caldwell, Joe Jones, J. C. Peeler, and J. W. McGinnis, who took on too much excess baggage to be an athlete.

Miriam Trexler, Pauline Jarrett, and Mary Lou Surratt are expert interior decorators.

Frank Hand, Walter Kluttz, and Jack Weisner are operating a home for their bachelor brothers.

Bill Shives is a C. P. A., and Banks Ridenhour is an auditor. Bill recently checked the books of the Steele-Trexler Air Conditioning Co. Henry Trexler is president of the company and James Steele is vice-president. Wade Conrad is secretary, and Ted Harris, treasurer. They recently did a job for Moskins, now operated by Ray Iddings. Hayden Gilleam, Charles Jarrett, and Charles Gooch are stockholders in this big clothing store.

Ray Cauble is manager of the Salisbury Theatres. Jimmy Jones is assistant manager.

The first successful woman optician in North Carolina is Marie Howan, whose place of business is in Greensboro.

An inexperienced aviator crashed a plane in Faith the other day and was rushed to the hospital by Van Clarke, undertaker, only to find that his mind had been located after having been dislocated for forty years. The aviator was Billy Hartsell.

Hazel Griffin and Marion Whirlow are successful primary teachers, having developed from childhood a pleasant disposition.

Julia Smith, Elizabeth White, Dot Summersett, Mary Putzel, Mary Plant, Elizabeth and Martha Winecoff, and Nevada Wyatt are considered the best secretaries in the state.

Hidden in an unknown place Joe Roberts, Scott Winders, and Dwight Holshouser labor day and night for the advancement of science.

William Summers, L. J. Young, Paul Roseman, Meade Loflin, and Charles Wall form a fleet of aeronauts.

Clifton Leonard is an automobile salesman for the Littleton-Peacock Motor Co. operated by Arnold Littleton and Charles Peacock.

John Scott Krider is owner of the next largest textile manufacturer in the world, the Wet-me Towel Co.

Warren Wilson and Gus Wansley are radio engineers.

Charles Leonard is an expert sign painter.

A noted fisherman throughout the south is Bob Wolfe. Bob specializes in minnows.

As the little brook murmured these last words rather low, I immediately raised my head, wondering if I had been forgotten. To my sorrow, the brook had corroded its bed so deep that I heard only my name in the ripples as they moved on toward the great sea.
